Hi, I'm Lulu. Five thousand yuan is a lot of money. How will I spend five thousand yuan? First, I will use it to help children in need. I can buy lots of new books and toys and share them with the children in the children's home. Second, I will buy a better chair for Mum, so her back won't hurt that much. Then, I want to buy a bike for my dad because he wants to go to work by bike. I want to save some money, too. Saving is important for the future. Maybe one day, I can use the money to help someone again.

The UK is famous for its tradition of afternoon tea. Many visitors think it's a must-do activity in London. Before you give it a try, here are a few things to keep in mind.

First, don't call afternoon tea "high tea". They are different! In the UK, people often enjoy afternoon tea with tea and small snacks, and they usually place them on low tables. High tea is a bigger meal for working-class people. They eat the food at higher tables, at the end of the workday.

Also, be polite. Drink the tea slowly. Don't make loud noises while drinking, and don't hit the cup with the spoon.

Finally, enjoy the moment. Afternoon tea is a time to chat with friends or family. So, put your phone away and enjoy the teatime together with your loved ones!

Next, we went to Xi'an. We visited museums there to learn about Chinese culture. We even dressed up in traditional Chinese clothes. How special!

After that, we went to Chengdu. Leo said it was his favourite city because he loved the pandas there! I loved Chengdu because the people there were very friendly. Once, we stopped by a teahouse. The people inside asked us to have tea with them. How lucky we were!
